AFTER ELECTION NIGHT

What is counted after Election Night?

- Vote by Mail ballots returned on Election Day*
- Conditional Voter Registration ballots
- Provisional Ballots

*Ballots postmarked on Election Day and received within 7 days will be accepted

Why are ballots counted after Election Night?

Vote by Mail, Conditional, and Provisional ballots returned on Election Day must be processed and verified before they can be counted and added to the results. In California, counties have 30 days to process, verify, and count these ballots – this period is known as the Official Election Canvass.

In a countywide election, there could be hundreds of thousands of ballots left to be counted after Election Night. Post-Election Night results will be reported regularly on a set schedule.
